Professor Lesley Collier

Lesley has a long standing relationship with Rompa® and Winslow Resources®. She has advised us in many areas of the effectivity of using Snoezelen® Multi-Sensory interventions for people with dementia and cognitive impairments.

“The right level of sensory stimulation helps to relieve stress and boredom; to engage in activity also involves an act of communication that enhances the feeling of comfort and well-being.”

Professor Lesley Collier, Senior Lecturer

Individuals with cognitive loss or memory impairment can struggle to remember recent events on a daily basis, however, long-term memories are more resilient & often remain untouched.

Reminiscence books, objects, games and any other product that helps stimulate memories and conversation can be of great benefit for people with memory loss.

Even something as simple as an old piece of packaging can bring back vivid memories from a happy time. Reminiscence can help carers and loved ones engage with people with dementia in a positive way and has the potential to improve the quality of life for the 800,000 living with dementia in the UK.
